IN DECEMBER.

I walk through the fields in December, As night is beginning to fall—All the landscape is somber and dreary, All nature is in winter's thrall.

The golden rods standing there faded, Pale phantoms of loveliness dead, Seem to sigh for beauty now lost to them,
To weep for the autumn that's fled.

And as I pause, I remember My beautiful hopes that are dead, They died with the flowers in November And left me wan ghosts in their stead.

A CHRISTIAN HOUSE.

What it Takes to Make a Typical Christian House.

In a recent Journal I spoke of a Christian home and one of my male readers writes and asks: "What do you mean by a Christian home?" I will tell you what I mean, my brother.
I mean a home in which the Bible is the chief book; a home in which the family kneels in prayer; a home in which father and mother are practical Christians; a home in which on Sabbath, from sunrise to sunset, there is profitable converse and cheerful songs and suggestions of a better world.
Whether the wall be frescoed or not, or only a ceiling of unplanned rafters; whether marble lions are couchant at the front entrance or a plain latch is lifted by a tow-string, that home is the ante-chamber of heaven. A man never gets over having lived in such an early home. It holds him in an eternal grip. Though his parents may have been gone forty years, the tears of penitence and gladness that were wept at the family altar still glitter in his memory. Nay, do you not now feel warm and hot on your hands the tears which your mother shed thirty years ago, when, one cold and winter night, she came and wrapped you up in the bed and prayed for your welfare here and for your everlasting welfare before the throne?
O ye that are to set up your own home, see that it be a Christian home!
Let Jesus make the wine at that wedding.

What a grand thing it is to have God stand guard at a door, and the Lord Jesus the family physician; and the wings of angels the canopy over the pillow; and the Lord of Glory a perpetual guest. You say it is important that the wife and mother be a Christian. I say to you, it is just as important that the husband and father be a Christian. Yet how many clever men there are who say, "My wife does all the religion of my house. I am a worldly man; but I have confidence in her, and I think she will bring the whole family up right." It will not do, my brother who may read these words. The fact that you are not a Christian has more influence on your family than the fact that your wife is a Christian. Your children will say, "Father is a very good man; he is not a Christian, and if he can risk the future, I can risk the future." O, father and husband, join your wife on the road to heaven, and at night gather your family at the altar! Do you say, "I can't pray; I am a man of few words, and I don't think I could put half a dozen sentences together in such a prayer." You can pray; you can. If your child were down with scarlet fever, and the next hour were to decide its recovery or its death, you would pray in sobs and groans, and paroxysms of earnestness. Yes, you can pray. When the eternal life of your household may depend upon your supplication, let your knees timber and go down; gather your family, kneel down, and in the solemn and hushed presence of God, gather up all your sorrow and temptations and sins, and cry out, "Good Lord, deliver us."

Who Pays The Duty?

If Mr. Tom Mann speaks the truth, and we have no reason to question his assertions, the people of Yorkshire have among them some remarkable evidence of the failure of a fiscal policy which was to confer lasting benefits upon the working classes. In an address which he has just delivered at Barnley, Mr. Mann remarked that:
"They found skilled men in Yorkshire working as weavers for 22s. per week. When they saw women, and even children, have to turn out and go into the mills to assist in making a living, that clearly indicated that there was something very unsatisfactory."

There is something radically wrong, and the bottom of it is to be found in our fiscal policy. In order to compete with any degree of success against goods imported free from abroad, the men are forced to accept low wages, and to keep down the cost of production the women and children are attracted to the mills. There is also another side to this question. If we are to retain a hold on foreign markets, might though it may be, wages must be kept down that the high foreign Tariffs may be overcome. One of the greatest arguments against the theory that the consumer pays the import duty is to be found in the fact that when a foreign nation increases the Tariff on a British product, the establishments charges as well as the wages on this side of the water are lowered, in order to give the manufacturer or the merchant a chance to deal successfully with the change. If the consumer paid the duty there would be little chance for our exports to grumble. But our manufacturers and work people do make sacrifices to meet the extra duty, and we accordingly hear grumbling from both. Let Mr. Mann impress these circumstances upon his mind, and trouble less about impossible schemes, and yet he may be able to accomplish some good for the working classes.

Meeting Postponed.

For months it has been contemplated that our January meeting would be continued, and a series of meetings held. To this end, the services of Rev. J. M. Sallee, of Headsboro City, had been secured by me to assist in said series of meetings, but when the time came, both myself and Brother Sallee were wholly disabled by "la grippe" and its concomitants; and besides, such was the health condition of the people of our town, that we deemed it impracticable to attempt a series of meetings at this time; hence the meeting has been postponed until spring, when we propose to begin a series of meetings in our church sometime, from the fourth Sunday in March to the second Sunday in April, and shall still expect to have the assistance of Rev. J. M. Sallee.

County Alliance Meeting.

The alliance meeting convened on the 7th and 8th of this month at Equality Church. I would say that owing to the inclemency of the weather and the vast amount of sickness in the country at the time, the attendance was not very large, yet, it was one of the grandest meetings ever held in the county. There was a unit in the demands laid down by our National body, which met at Indianapolis, Ind. The body received the report of their delegate to the State Union, Bro. B. F. Bartlett, and gave him a unanimous endorsement as such. I would say to the brotherhood, that there was some very important business transacted in that all meeting of '92, as you will find out hereafter.

I now return thanks to the brethren of Equality neighborhood for the hospitable manner in which they treated the delegation that assembled with them. This done by order of the body. B. F. BARTLETT.

ATNAVILLE, KY.

JAN. 18, 1892.—Our little town is on the boom. A number of new dwellings are going up and there is quite a demand for them on account of so many families moving in from other places. The main attraction here is our school, which is being taught by Miss Coleman, of Hartford.
The school however, is very much afflicted with grip just now; in fact, all the surrounding country has it. There are thirty cases here, some of which are past recovery.

Our debating society, which meets every Friday night, is quite the liveliest society of its kind in these parts.
We have also an immense Sunday school in which the old as well as the young take part and we have an enjoyable time studying the scriptures.

Rev. B. F. Jenkins, who was recently called to our church, Zion, arrived Friday and delivered his first sermon Sunday, Jan. 10.

Mrs. Susan Taylor has just returned from Reynolds, where she has been on an extended visit to her daughter.
Frank Westfield spent several days last week in Deaneville. Miss Fannie Simpson returned from Fordville Monday.

EGYPTIAN ANTIQUITIES, Interesting Relics Discover- ed a Few Miles From Alexandria.

Valuable archaeological "finds" are being developed not far from Alexandria, Egypt. They are illustrative of the Greco-Roman period. Investigation is under Danilus Pasha, and is being pushed between thirteen and fourteen miles from Alexandria. The London Times says of the discoveries: At four to six feet below the surface the diggers found three statues in rose granites, ten feet high, lying faced downward, among the ruins of a temple, of which part of the outer wall with lower portions of columns and several square yards of flooring have been laid bare. The statues had been originally erected at or within the temple, and one of them is lying in front of its pedestal, which is about three feet high. They represent in a group, according to the hieroglyphic inscriptions, Ramesses II. (the Greek Sesostris) and his Queen Hentemara seated. The third statue is of Ram-esses II in an upright posture, wearing a pleated tunic, bracelets, military crown, and a girdle bearing the inscription, "Beloved of Seth." At his left side he holds a scepter, surmounted by the head of his son Menepthah (the Pharaoh of the Exodus), whose cartouch is inscribed on the scepter.
On the plinth at his back, which is of equal height with the statue, is chiseled a bas-relief of Queen Hentemara in profile, wearing a pleated tunic and the royal trees. The inscription above her head is "Daughter of the King—beloved of her father—Royal spouse—great favorite Hentemara." On the back of the plinth is carved the royal banner of Ramesses II., with all his known titles and appellations.
The execution of the three statues is in the plain, vigorous style of the Twelfth Dynasty.

The feet of Ramesses, which had been broken off in one piece with a clean fracture, were found at a few yards distance. The two heads of the group have also been broken off, and are being searched for.
It is surmised that the temple and statues were overthrown after the edict of Theodosius, A. D. 380, abolishing the Egyptian religion but nothing has yet been discovered to identify the temple with any of those known to have existed during the Egyptian or Greco-Roman periods.
Dr. Nestor Bey's interpretation of the inscription is—Hentemara, daughter of the King, beloved of her father (i. e., the preceding King, Ousir Menepthah, who was father of both Ramesses and Hentemara), royal spouse (of Ramesses II.) (the referring also to Ramesses) great favorite of Seth.

The Pharaohs, following the example of Osiris, King of the Gods, and his sister Isis, had the prerogative of espousing their own sisters, and this custom, consecrated by both the civil and religious law, was followed in several instances by the Pharaohs.

Protection in Australia.

It has been persistently claimed by the free traders that the colony of New South Wales, which has adhered to free trade, has prospered greatly, while Victoria, which adopted the protective policy in 1870, has languished and dwindled. New South Wales has lately modified her fiscal system in the direction of protection, which is sufficient indication that her people have not been satisfied with the way they were getting on under free trade. The fact of that change ought to be enough to subvert the assertions about the relative condition of the two colonies.

Sir Guilford L. Molesworth has recently written a letter to London Fair Trade, in which he compares their progress. In the first place, he corrects an error in figures made by a Mr. Robinson in a letter to the London Times, in which it was stated that in five years ending in 1889 the population of New South Wales had increased 32 per cent, while that of Victoria had only increased by 16 1/2 per cent. Sir Guilford gives the correct figures as 16 1/2 per cent, for Victoria and 17 per cent, for New South Wales.

New South Wales has more than three times the area of Victoria, and has, besides, excellent pastoral and agricultural districts, an unusual wealth and variety of minerals, including gold, extensive silver and lead mines, diamonds, abundance of tin, magnificent coal beds with seams of enormous thickness, valuable deposits of iron ore of various qualities in close proximity to coal and limestone, copper, antimony, bismuth, manganese, cobalt, zinc and platinum.

Victoria has little coal and none of the other minerals but gold, and her gold mines, which caused her to be made a separate colony, have decreased continually in productiveness till her output of gold in 1889 was £2-400,000 less than it was in 1870.
Sir Guilford gives a table comparing statistically the condition of Victoria in 1870 and 1889, by which it appears that its population has increased more than 50 per cent; its manufactures have doubled; its revenues more than doubled; its land area under cultivation nearly trebled; its shipping tonnage more than trebled; its savings banks balances increased nearly five fold, and its exports of wheat multiplied nearly eight fold and its wool exports more than doubled, and ask if a policy which shows such results can be said to have ruined a colony. Notwithstanding the great natural advantages of New South Wales, the protected colony, with its narrow resources, has shown the more substantial prosperity and its experience has at least converted its sister to protection.

FALLS OF ROUGH, KY.

JAN. 9, 1892.—Since our last letter to the REPUBLICAN, several deaths have claimed their victims. Among them are Joseph Wilson, Wesley Porter and Mrs. Annie Slavin. At Gausey, Ky., on Christmas day, Wm.
Porter and Joseph Young became involved in a drunken row, in which Porter stabbed Young very severely.
Young is recovering. Wm. Woolley and Frank Tuttle have built a flat-bark for the purpose of shipping hickory timber, horse-poles and cross-ties. Col. L. Green went to Evansville last week to buy a pleasure boat to run in Rough River above his mil-dam. The new depot at this place is now completed and a lady has been assigned the office as telegraph operator. The ax handle factory is still in full operation, furnishing employment for several men. The steam saw mill has begun work, buying all the logs they can. The work is so good with cross-ties, staves, hoops, lumber and hickory timber that unless some of it is shipped the haulers will have to quit work for a while.

GLENNVILLE, KY.

JAN. 18, 1892.—Sickness is plentiful. The grip has been affecting everybody. The wedding bells are ringing fast, it is leap year. A. J.
Fitts has been granted a pension. He got $108 at first and $12 per month.
Mrs. Eulene Head and daughters have the grip. Mrs. Martha Fitts died last Monday of the grip. She was in her 80th year. John Ramage, who has been sick a month with ty
